(Participant, man:) As far as we're concerned we would..we would rather see somethin'right away too. Cause where you get a whole bunch of smaller housing authority around there. The management operational authority per unit is more expensive than it is where you have a larger group operating as one..as one Housing Authority. And when you do get a demand for the conventional low rent project it'll be a whole lot better than having a larger size operating than a small one.

Mr. Clement: 'Course here again this all comes back to what you said earlier, Bill, you brought this up earlier and like you said, these people have lived there all their lives. And their credit and their finances all established here. If you dislocate them down to Anadarko we've got this all to do over again. Course what we would like to see is this mutual help all together so that you have a lady in the office or a man in the office all the time. Have a maintenance man that you'd be justified to pay. Well, if you've got it in five or six sites, you're not oing to be able to get attentive service but if this big project doesn't fulfill the need that you've got there. Then we're not getting a lot of problems. So...

(Participant, man:) What..what I was trying to if they can cover the operations of somebody else, that may be operating up there.

Mr. Clement: Right.

(Participant, lady:) And another thing with location, it right around Binger within that district why it's just to the fact that we're planning on having our medical center so that they all have service.

Mr. Clement: If we justs get water out there, it'd be..

(Participant, lady:) Let's pipe it in.

(Several people laughing.)

Mr. Clement: Is that all you have to do.
