But anyway, it has one of these big buggys I call it a double one, you know, where they sit and face each other. They were riding in that and they had a big parade and everything. Now, that had something to do with the war. Anyway, right after that, well, we all went down to my cousins' went to the army and we all went down to the train, you know, to see off all the soldiers. And I can remember us kids, we were crying, crying because you know, the German people were in this war and course my father, like I said, he was Scotch and course his folks came from Scotland, course his grandmother's folks see, the Dixon's one came from Scotland, course his grandfathers folks came from Germany, see? And so, you know, we 'fraid people would think we was German and start beatin' on us, see? And you know, theAmerican people as a whole are very good, you know, they do a lotta good things, but among them, there's a great deal of petty stuff, you know, like hate and right now, you kind them. They hate the Jewish, they hate the Germans about this last war we had, and now they hatin' the Vietnamese and then their hating' their hatin' the Jews again. Well, actually the Jewish people didn't start these fights, they've always one that bein' the people that got picked on, you know. And you know, I get most of my truth from that Good Book, see? Their were always the people, of course that was, that was their destiny, you know, it was meant for them. I told them that's the way they'd be drived from one place to the other and you know, they'd have to work for other people and people would kick 'em around. But, ah, but I can't understand this country. We have a good country, we have one of--we have the best country in the world. We have a good way of life and we have an abundance of everything. Yeah, we have this little petty stuff and too much greed. You know? Course I won't say that the majority of the people are greedy, because their not. But, we have these few that, they don't care about the human race. But the dollar that's all they care about and they do anything for it. And it's wrong. That's what made me sick about Oklahoma. Cause all these people, they made millions out of this oil. Now, mother ran a boarding house and we were paid good, but you know what I mean we had a big family to feed. And so, it took it. People would gripe and belly-ache about the groceries being high-well it's their fault. I got a garden out there and we eat out of it. Everybody could do the same thing. You know, everybody could plant, you see people who's got
