I guess so, something like Hall of Fame.

(Do you have clippings or certificates?)

For ball playing?

(Yes.)

I've lost all of them. I use to have them. They said I was second in U.S. next to Jim Thorpe.

(It sure would have been good cause if I was to send them in they would recognize you.)

There's a picture of me in 1915 rule book. I was second to Jim Thorpe.

(They should have your records at Haskell.)

They should have my record at Haskell. I'll write to them and ask them. I've played football, baseball and who I played against. I sent that to them, but I played football, baseball and who I played against. I sent that to them, but I never did get them to answer. I wrote to Harrington, he told me to, but he never did answer. (Haskell Institute at Lawerence, Kansas.)

EARLY DAY CUSTOMS

(Could you tell something about Indian burial?)

Well, if anyone died, they didn't embalm back in those days. There use to be a man name Ingram that make caskets. They would put in little food in casket whatever they liked when living. After burial they make little house on top of the grave. This day boy that died, they buried him near Tewahle (?) and they made little house.

(Did you all have plenty to eat back in your young days?)

Yes, what crop we made and sometimes we didn't have much. We went hungry sometimes. (There is some background conversation in this tape that is apparently irrelevant.) There was lot of squirrels and rabbits to.

(Well, I guess you are tired now and its time for (not clear)--)

I never do talk to nobody like this--(starts talking in Creek.) (Laughter).

(