My dear Stanley Vestal:

I just received your superb volume on Sources of Indian History. All the world of truth lovers will be grateful to you for this contribution. Some day I will give you some additional information. On page 36 you have a picture of Sitting Bull's grave, and standing by are two persons; the one with the white hair is Dr. Clyde Fisher and the other is myself. This ~~is~~ took when we were visiting Standing Rock in 1927. At that time a bunch of tourists came and joined us. I said to them, "I invite everyone here who feels as I do to follow my example." I gathered a bouquet of prairie flowers, took off my hat and reverently laid the flowers on the great Chief's grave. Everyone, with one exception, followed my example.

best

With/wishes to the family.

Cordially yours,

Ernest Thompson Seton. S.
