

Wa si cun, a white man.

Washe Chunt., Pronounced thus. I think that this must have been applied to the white people because the Indians first saw the French cooks that came up the river and they were always working. The translation literally is 'laborer.'