

them were in favor of the Commissions proposition while Sitting Bull and his followers were bitterly opposed to it.

Then came the Messiah Craze in which the Standing Rock Indians, especially the Sitting Bulls Band were influenced by outside forces - to believe that the only salvation for them to obtain relief from the embarrassing situation was through the coming of the Messiah.

Having resorted to that last measure, the Indians became insubordinate and finally troubles ensued which wound up with the arrest and death of Sitting Bull and the death of other Indians.

Sitting Bull's prophesy of disastrous years 1889 & 1890 came true.
