Dear Mr. Campbell:

X My friend, Mr. George H. Gooderham, Blackfeet Indian Agent, Gleichen, Alberta, sent me a copy of the information he sent you about Sitting Bull and the Blackfeet. The one mistake in it was that Fort Benton should read, Fort Walsh. It was near the latter place that Sitting Bull and his people mostly camped while in Alberta.

Miss Jessie L. Donaldson, late of the Department Of English, Montana State College, and I, last summer obtained from the Kutenai Indians, of Montana, and British Columbia, 35,000 words of their exceedingly interesting and important myths and legends. Next summer we want to be with them again and get in full the social organization, history, and religion of the tribe, so to make a Kutenai book of real value. But owing to unforeseen and most unfortunate wiping out of our funds, ~~xxx~~ we will not have the means to do this. And we would require so little. $1200. Do you think that the Guggenheim Foundation may possibly help us? Anyhow, will you please let me know its address.

Yours very sincerely,

James Willard Schultz.
