Dear Walter:

You reckon you will be able to help me out of a tight place.

All worth while things are always accidents, the Indian Pony is an important link in our present Barbarism, since you suggested it.

Have started with him in old Mexico and carried him across U.S.A. to Dead Horse Lake in Alberta, Canada so you can sell the book in Canada.

I have one more chapter or two on the end of the faithful Indian pony.

If you will have old Harold Bugbee put a real paint Stallion with testicles on the cover of this book, with head up, eyes and nostrils dilated as he whistled at daylight to some mare smells, he was a magnificent animal; he will sell the book.

Anything worth doing at all is worth doing well and this can be made into a far better book than Frank Dobies mustangs. All over U.S. and Canada are people who once owned an Indian pony with fond memories. I know you are the busiest man in the U.S.A. that's the reason you are good.

My kindest regards to you my friend,
