it was impossible to tell.
I ounsed a whtte llag to be eveoted on the orest where I wes located, (a prearranged signal between the soldiers and the policel and direoted a few shote to be Pired from the Hotohkiss into the woods mentioned. In answer a white flag was Alsplayed from Bull's house, and Indians were seen leavine the woods going In the direotion of the ilils to the south, aoroge Grand River.

The Fotohkise gun was then turned upon the party on our right froat, this with come ifre from adsmounted inne of "F" Troop causec them to retreet rapidiy from their position up the valley of the Grand River to the North Nest.

Ifevtenent $91000 m$ with his troop dismounted, was ordered to advance immedictely apon the rouse. Ileutenant Crowder with "e" Troop mounted, moved rapidiy to the right along the high lande, covering the right flank of the dismounted inne. As the dismounted line appromohod the house the polioe came out and joined the comment.

The line was advanced through the timocr dislodging a fow hostiles who disappeared repidiy up the river through the willows.

The line after adyancing through the willows some six huadred yards, fell back to the immediete viainity of sitting Bull's house leaving pickets at the furthert points gined by the advence. Jieutenant Crowder in the meantime observod the Indigne getheriag at hcusee the the river about two miles from Bull's camp, roved in pursuit of them. The Indiens fell back from every woint upon the aprroach oi the trops, not ahowing any desire to engage in hostile aotion against the solaiers.

All the houses for a distance of about two miles were examined enci all were found deserted, but showed aigne of recent ocoupstion.

Failing to oome up with the Indians in tris direction
