

TONY WHITECLOUD Hoop Dancer

Tony Whitecloud is the foremost Hoop Dancer among the Indians today. The Exposition takes pleasure in presenting Whitecloud and Sammy Brightstar. These boys are from Jemez Pueblo, New Mexico. They recently appeared in a motion picture, and toured the United States in the interest of Bond Sales. Whitecloud and Brightstar appear daily before the grands'and.

Marie and Julian Martinez

Not only are Marie and Julian, of San Ildefonso, New Mexico, the most famous Indian potters, but the finest Indian potters that history knows anything about. With a bit of red and blue clay Marie moulds the pots and vases that have made her famous around the world, and Julian with a piece of polishing stone and a brush made from a porcupine-like bristle of the yucca plant, decorates these pots with original designs that are distinguished by reticence and deftness in the distribution of color, coupled with the creation of bold contrasts. Marie and Julian may be seen at their work in the Arts and Crafts building. Their skill is indeed marvelous; their mastery fascinating.
