Dear Chief Mankiller:

Your name was given to us as an outstanding speaker and we have an interest in receiving information on this for our clients. We work with several women's conferences around the country and believe you and your message would be very well received.

Unfortunately, we have so far been unsuccessful in having details sent to us, after having called twice for information.

We are looking for a biography and general information, press release/articles, the topic areas you address, plus a fee schedule and a demonstration video or audio if possible.

Would you please be so kind as to arrange to have this information sent to us as soon as possible. We have one client in particular who is waiting to receive details for a conference currently being planned.

Please call if you have questions. We appreciate your prompt response.

Sincerely,

Lynn Campbell
