each representing their clan, who sat in the tribal council with the men and had a big say in tribal decisions. I did a painting about the 7 clans with women representing each clan (Mothers of the Cherokee) - it has been my best selling print (will be in Smithsonian Catalog this month) and the original is in a North Carolina Museum. But in that painting, the women are symbols & not "real". In the new painting, I want them to be real faces of real women representing their own clan. I have been fortunate enough to find women to volunteer as models for all
