"Whatever befalls the earth, befalls the people of the earth. Man did not weave the web of life; he is merely a strand in it. Whatever he does to the web, he does to himself."

Chief Seattle

The Wittenberg Center for Alternative Resources, Inc. is a not-for-profit, publicly supported organization. Our purpose is to facilitate a bridging of the ancient wisdom with contemporary life. The Wittenberg Center is dedicated to creating forums for the dissemination of information about indigenous cultures, earth awareness, appropriate technology and personal and planetary transformation.

In an age of global warming, disappearing rain forests, acid rain, a depleted ozone layer and the pollution of the air, land and waterways, it is imperative that we seek out solutions for the complex issues facing our planet today. The Wittenberg Center is an institute that seeks opportunities for people of all faiths, colors and traditions to come together in mutual respect to address the problems that face us all at this critical time. We foster ways of remembering and honoring the interconnectedness of all life, all people.

For many thousands of years, indigenous peoples around the world have lived in harmony with the earth. For the past five hundred years, their voices have been silenced, their warnings have not been heard. The Wittenberg Center is a voice for those who speak for the Earth, knowing that, on this tiny, fragile globe, truly we are all related.

Nestled in the Catskill mountains outside Woodstock, NY, The Wittenberg Center's headquarters houses our archives, workshop pavilions, video facilities, a wildlife preserve, herbal and organic farms, ceremonial sites and the World Peace Chamber, an interfaith sanctuary built by hand with stones and crystals from around the world.

We welcome you to join with us in co-creating visions of a healed world. Join with us in learning, working, laughter and prayer. The world needs all our voices, all of our prayers.
