

would go to work at six. And I had to work to maybe ten or eleven o'clock.

(You didn't have much time to study then.)

No. Then I had to go down there at noon and work one hour.

(On your lunch hour?)

Yes. Then of the morning, I would go down there at six o'clock and work until 8 o'clock. Finally, he got to giving me the keys to open up of the morning and close at night.

(Now what year was this?)

That was in 1917.

(In '17 and--)

'17 and '18.

(Well it would have been in '18 something wouldn't it?)

Yeah. Well part of '17 and '18.

(Well you about 19 years old then,)

No. I wasn't quite 19 then.

(Well. It was probably around 19--something?)

Yes. Somewhere along there.

(About 1914--1913?)

When I went there?

(Uh-huh.)

No. Well when I was living with this man up there in Love County it was from 1909, up till I was 17. No. I think I am getting ahead of myself there. I can't remember just exactly.

(Well, that is all right anyway. That was way back then--that was when the horse and buggy was still on the street?)

Yeah. And in Oklahoma there was old time street cars.

(Uh-huh. With the rods overhead?)

Yeah. There wasn't too many cars then.
