

(That's right.)

That's what the doctor--I have a doctor and he told me that.

(Yeah.)

Joe and--let's see, what was that, Jess. They were brothers, Joe and Don or Jess was. I don't know what his first name was, but we all called him Jess. He was a big old--both of 'em are dead now.

(And then the old Raven family.)

Well, I didn't know nothing about them. They lived back up in there. I've heard the name, but I didn't know 'em. Yes, I heard of 'em. (pase)

Well, down around here, well I been getting down to Terecita, but there's a Redbird--

(Yeah.)

Cemetery down here on the other side of Lucky, and there used to be just any place where they had houses. But right now I can't recall any up on the creek or down the creek. I'm sure they're are. There's some Indian graves up there where Indians buried in the creek.

(There is?)

They been there for years and years and years. This place used to belong to--let's see--Downeys.

(Downeys?)

(End of Interview.) (End of Side A - Part I)
