

(And (Osage name))

Yeah, she was Mrs. Core's mother, Miss (Osage name). I think that is 11 of them up there, supposed to be 10. We're supposed to have 10 members to get a charter.

(Did you have Mrs. Amos Hamilton?)

That's right, Mrs. Amos Hamilton. That's right, Mrs. Amos Hamilton. I think that is all of the members.

(That's about right, eleven. I kind of thought and kind of remembered all who it was. I was over in Africa when Mr. Joe Abbott, he wrote me a letter he had heard you were forming this club, I mean, this organization.)

Un-hun.

(And I think he was at Camp McCoy, Wisconsin, and I guess his wife, Francis, had written him a letter, told, telling him about this. And he in turn wrote me over in north Africa, what was going on there. I didn't know ya'll was forming this organization till a little later, you know.)

Un-hun.

(But that was the first time I had heard of it. Who--who would--who thought about having this club at first? Do you remember exactly who?)

Martha Harper.

(Kind of initiated the idea? Mrs. Harper, hun?)

Yes.

(She came to you or how did she go about forming this organization?)

Well, she came out here and talked to me about it. She said she heard other groups are forming organization and we thought that we would like to do that. She would just come out to see about me, see what I thought about it, this organization. And I told her that that would be nice if we could get
