

SPECIAL TABLE SET FOR MOURNERS

Third voice: Does the family fast? The ones that has passed away, why would be theirs and they fast?

Well, generally, they do fast, you know, they don't feel like eating, but there is always a special table set, you know, for them to eat. They call them and they eat because they have fixed that table, you know.

(The family eats at that special table.)

And if they feel like eating, why naturally they eat, you know. And so - but they don't just go on and just fast, you know, they probably just don't feel like eating. But if they want to eat, why that table is set especially for them.

(Where would this ceremony take place? The buried?)

GRAVESIDE CEREMONY

Well, there's - they have the little ceremony - 'course the burial, and then course that's really - that's the main ceremony there at the grave, you know. And that's the only ceremony that they have. 'Course the food is already - someone blesses it, you know and then. . . .

Third voice: Don't. . . went up and talked to Anna in Indian.

Uh-huh.

Third voice: You talked to her?

Uh-huh.

Third voice: What were you telling her?

Well, I told her that she has left us and that we will be - we'll miss her but we will be praying for her. You know, that she will be - she has gone you know, to, well, her home now and then for her to think of us and to pity us - the ones that she has left, you know. And for her to always think, you know, of the rest that she had left and her family, you know.
