

Yeah.

(How about your Mama?)

That's how come I stay here. This is mine. They had to move off, you know, when I got mad. They was living here while I was--

Maggie: Then you all lived over yonder before we build this house.

Yeah.

Maggie: You know where the locust tree over yonder?

Little log house up there. We lived in a log house and a side room. I was awful little, you know, I was 9--8--9 years old. No, I was 8 years old when we moved here, 1909. I was going to school at that school house. They just had a school, it ain't log house,

(Well, now your Mama--let's see now, it was your mother who came over on the Trail of Tears or your grandmother?)

My grandmother. Mama wasn't old enough.

(She was born after they got out here?)

All of 'em around 70 or 75.

(Yeah, that's right. Did your grandmother tell you very much--talk very much about that?)

Yeah, she talk quite a bit about it, but not too much. She just told me when she left there, she was 12 years old.

(Oh, she left when she was 12. Where did they come from?)

They come from Georgia.

(Out of Georgia. She ever talk very much about those white people down there or anything?)

No. All she said there was the army got them started coming out here. I don't know whether it was army or whether it was--

(The soldiers?)
