

(5). Archie Mason.

It was during this time that Archie broke a string of beads and he asked the whip man to pick them up for him. (It was the custom for a warrior to pick up any part of equipment that was dropped.)

(6). Alfred McKinley.

(7). Victor Akers.

Now then drummers and ladies and gentlemen, I come now in the interest of Mr. and Mrs. Lasley here and their children. This is what they say. That certain things of the course of family misfortune sometimes brings about certain things that maybe sometimes people want to do. But today being that this is the day trained for this, we want to share it with those of our people here at this district. So as family, what we want to do, in honor of this song, Victor Akers. We want to give to next year's dance, a beef, in honor of our family in respect to this song.

(8). Johnnie Williams.

(9). Ida Sweetwater.

(10). Hall Goode, Jr.

(There are several songs on this tape.)

(End of Side A.)

(Side B.)

(This is the Grayhorse Give-away, June 8, 1969.)

(11). Joe Bates.

(12). Tom Shaw.

(13). Fannie Donelson.

(14). Wilson Kirk.

I come now to repeat what my sister and my brother-in-law and my niece have just told me. They have my son's little baby and they danced with this song. That baby shall carry the name of Wilson Kirk, that was his name and that's his name today. My brother-in-law said it's good that we feel that the name
