

That's the first time --

(Oh. And she practices those medicines?)

Uh-huh. (I'll have to go over and talk to her sometimes.)

She's a quarter Indian, too.

(Quarter Indian?)

Cherokee.

(She probably looks more white than she does Indian.) /Laughter/

She does. They sign up with Indian agency going to build her a house.

(Well, she's -- she can get one. -- if you're a quarter. How old is she?)

Same as I am.

(Oh, she'd ---)

She's friendly.

(Well, Myrtle, I won't bother you anymore today, but I thank you a lot for talking to me and telling me about medicine and growing around here and everything.)

You're not bothering me.

(Maybe I'll come back and talk to you.)

Okay.

(End of Interview.)
