

--their grandparents--have left them this place. They're going to stay there. You got a home there in town. You got a home. You got another home. Your kids got a home there. They got a place to go. And I still stay there. Today one of my grandsons come from Nevada. He was hurt. He wanted to come down so we could take care of him. He's staying over there today. (unintelligible words). He's staying there. The good part of it is that he don't use liquor. I feel secure while he stays with us. His name is Billy Ralph Turtle. I go with him to the meetings. I encourage him to lead that kind of life--congregate with good people. "Wherever they are dancing there are good people," I said. "Go to them." That was our life when the old lady (Ralph's wife) was living. We like the good people. And be happy. That's where we go. I don't have to tell you. They know me all over. Throughout--to Hammond. I think clearly.

ADVICE OF OLDER CHIEFS TO CHIEFS-ELECT AND RELATIONSHIP OF CHIEFS WITH EACH OTHER

Now this, what I'm going to tell you--what I had to go through--it's going to be the similar thing, like this. (Referring to giveaway when installed as chief) Don't make it hard on yourself. Don't make it--we are prepared. You don't have to give a horse away if you don't want to. You don't have to. Today the food is the main thing. That food. Your fellow members--whoever's there--there's going to be a (unintelligible word)... talked about it. I called one old man (I think Ralph means he called up one old man, an older chief, to receive a present when he, Ralph, was being installed chief.--J. Jordan). He died when he was ninety-two years old. That was Old Man Little Face. I had lots of teaching from him. Little Face and them other old fellows. I liked to keep him. They called me aside. We sit down. They ask me. They talk. They don't talk about anybody else. They talk about people living and how they're getting along. How your family getting along. Talk about good life. They talk about those things. I listen to them. They tell me that. I call that man--Jacob Allrunner--I call him. Now here's what he said. I had called my fellow chiefs in,
