

them too. Jim Baines--they was Indian, both of them.

(Yeah.)

Finally got in with them. ' Jim killed a fella and got into trouble and got mixed up with them outlaws there, robbing them banks and things. 'They finally caught Mount, I think. The federal marshall caught him. He went up there and he about to take over and, by god, two of them Arkansas laws knew him and they arrested him. He was fifteen years down there at Little Rock. They sent him down there. They sent (not clear) too.'

(Well.)

That was kinda funny. Troy and Ky got away.

(Yeah.)

MOUNT COOKSON AND TROY AND KY CARLILE IN THE PENITENTIARY - ESCAPE

Mount--they kept inside--inside the wall. But they took Troy and Ky out on that big farm, They had a big farm, you know, and it belonged to that state, and they worked them out there. Both was young, stout men. And Mount he got sick. He wasn't able to work, and they kept him inside the wall there. Troy and Ky they was hoeing cotton. Troy said every time ordered them back to work. A fella riding a big red mule, he would call the roll, you know, and line them all up. Troy told Ky, "There's just a three-wire barbed wire fence around this damn place." Right outside, boy, there was just a wilderness, big timber, 'little timber, brushy as hell, you know. He told Ky, "By god, right here is where I aim to get away or I'm dead man, one. I ain't going to hoe another g--d--- stalk of cotton for these s---o-b-----". I've done all I'm going to do." Ky said, "All right, when we get up pretty near to the far end, "said, "by god, we'll make a dive for it." They did. They broke and run and dove under that
