

And so they never did get it done. That's why I'm living (inaudible).

(Oh, it's a nice house. I like it.)

It needs fixing up some, though.

(I like it. It's real comfortable and homey.)

Lived there quite a little while.

REARED CHILDREN OTHER THAN HER OWN - SUNDAY SCHOOL TEACHER

So I ought to know she ought to know which one it was. Of those (inaudible) girls--

(Interruption.)

I don't know how many different (inaudible). I've raised up different ones. I don't know how many's married and left and brought their kids back. And I'd have them in my class down here at the church. About thirty-five years, I guess, I've taught Sunday School class down there.

I'm just anywhere I'm needed. Well, that's where I'm at.

(Gertie, are you still teaching Sunday School now?)

Yes.

(Every Sunday?)

Uh-huh. Yes. Ever Sunday.

(The little ones? What age group?)

Well, sometimes the teacher's gone and I have to have them all mixed up. There's a whole lot of them that goes down there. The women folk just ain't about to teach those kids; they won't fool with them. And it's just a have to case with me. I love to fool with them. But we generally have three classes all along. But after that Negro had come and preached here, well, just a lot of them quit the church because he preached there. But I had this little--but I tell you a little story about them that loved me. He was just a little fellow when they come. I say he wasn't
