

(Well.)

They'd open it and read it.

(They knew where it was from.) (Laughter)

They'd know it. They knew where it was from.

(Was Tahlequah a very big town when the seminary was going on?)

Mr. Gourd: No there wasn't much of a town,

(Just a little bitty place.)

But you know it's just--it's a big place.

(Oh yeah, it's a big town now.)

Where your grandmother stayed.

(Yeah.) No, what they call Moody's, you know they got a store and church and school there, or did have.)

I don't think they have a school house.

(Yeah, but that place has been there a long time I guess.)

That's where they have the election, you know. There wasn't enough children, was there?

Unidentified Voice: No.

To keep the school going.

(Yeah.)

Unidentified Voice: They all went to Lowrey.

(Long time ago they did have school there, I guess. I imagine at one time, it was all Indians that went to school there, I suppose.)

Let's see.

(Well did they ever have a grist mill down there?)

Yeah, they had one.

Unidentified Voice: They used to have a school down there at (not clear), long time ago.

That's what Hooley's daddy said. That's where he went.
