

down there. Really good fishing holes.

(Well.)

By now days there ain't a place I guess is five foot deep down this doggone creek. About all filled up.

(Yeah. Where does this creek run into Barren Fork?)

Run down below Welling down yonder.

(Yeah)

About a--oh maybe a mile and half, two miles.

(static)

(Yeah, these rivers and creek are all filling up.)

Yep.

(Hillsides washing off down in there.)

That's right. (not clear) a long time down here about a mile and a half where the railroad used to run--what we call Slate Bluff, high hill and no people back over there other side of High hill. Was talking about putting in a dam there for a long time, but I don't hear no more about it. It was supposed to back water down here at Proctor when they get that dam down there.

(Well).

(static on tape)

(sentence not clear) west from here.

(West.)

Yeah, you see that railroad it runs a train west from here. It's about eleven miles down there to Welling. And about mile or two miles on down to the river.

(Yeah.)

MORE ABOUT GOOD FISHING

And its about 12 or 13 miles here to the Illinois River back through that way. Caught lot of big old catfish out of the Illinois. Anymore its just a little old creek got so low. Why boy they sure knew how to fish that.

(Well)
