

(I remember I took you and Looney down to Tahlequah to sell some Kanutchia balls. Remember? Sakey?)

Sakey: words in Cherokee.)

"Yes" she says.

(You remember them? (Laughter) We went to the bank. We went to Big Jim's. And I believe that's all.)

I guess that's her daughter that runs the store--her son--

Sakey: (words in Cherokee)

(It was right around Thanksgiving time) (Sakey talking in Cherokee)

Wires. Yeah, they borrowed the money over there and have to pay for it that time.

(Yeah, he wanted some Kanutchia too though. Bought some Kanutchia off of them.)

Yeah, he liked that stuff. (Words to child irrelevant)

(So after your husband died, they tried to take the place away from you? Somebody did?)

DISCUSSION ABOUT LAND, HEALTH AND WELFARE

That store man did, (name unclear) (Says something in Cherokee.)

(What happened? Had she borrowed a little money on it or something?)

Patterson's the one, borrowed money, you know. She said he (Sakey is speaking in Cherokee and Maggie translating) wouldn't even loan a penny anymore. She said he's mad.

(Oh, well you still have your home. That's important, you know. Because it wasn't fair for him to take it just for that little bit of money.)

'Bout what happened. What's gonna happen, you know. Like he said, Nixon last night, I was thinking about her, you know and it draws Social Security. Nixon said the one that's able to work; is going to work.
