

live there?)

In Lawton.

(Lawton, and how long did you all live there and then you came on down here?)

We, heck, we lived there all my life except about 2 or 3 years when we lived in Carnegie.

(Carnegie? And then you came on down here?)

No, my dad started preaching. Well three years, I got out of Highschool in '62 and I went to Haskell Institute in Lawrence, Kansas and graduated from their vocational training school in the business department.

(Uh-huh.)

Went to work in St. Louis as an accountant up there. I went back there the following year and started at Cameron. Finished up there, 2 yrs. up there and then that's when I first came up here. So that's when. . . .

(Started at Cameron?)

Cameron Junior College.

(Oh, Cameron Junior College? And that's located in Lawton?)

Largest Junior College in the State. But anyway, that's when I came up here. I been here since.

(And you have your degree?)

I'd like to--, well when I first came up here I had it all planned out. After I got my certificate, my degree I'd try to get on as a teacher at Haskell's in North Kansas and while I was teaching here, working on my Master's degree up at K.U.

NEGATIVE MIND CONCERNING O.I.O. AND NATIONAL YOUTH INDIAN COUNCIL.

(Uh-huh, well I was going to ask you something else too. I'm just full of questions. Have you ever been interested in any of the social issues that are going on concerning Indians?)

What issues are those?

(Well, like bettering their conditions and really getting out and working for them and using political power to bring it about and all these things, you
