

(Log Cabin?)

Yeah. And they had what they call puncheon floors.. Split logs you know.

(And there were cracks between the--)

And home made fire--chimney.

(Fireplace. Who was your father's mother. Do you remember her name?)

Well, her Church name was Sarah. But I don't know any other. Call her real Indian name--they all have Indian name and you can't hardly pronounce 'em.

(What was her Indian name?)

They call her Ti bo chee.

(What does that mean in English?)

I don't know. (Laughter)

(Did you live with your grandmother awhile?)

No. I been to visit with her. She had a daughter. I stayed there with her and my aunt too. Her daughter was my father's sister--not sister--yeah--sister.

DUTIES OF LIGHT HORSEMEN BEFORE STATEHOOD

(Yes. Mrs. Yeager, before Statehood, do you remember any of the Light Horsemen in this part of the County?)

Yes. They had it all time.

(Who were some of the men who were Light Horsemen?)

(Name not clear)--I think. (Speaks in Seminole language).

(Who was the first man you said?)

Ollie Miller.
