

(Laughter)

Mr. Turnbow: Well, again, you've been very nice, and I'm firm believer in stopping on time. So, we're past nine by my time, but, again, I do appreciate it.

(Applause)

CLOSING REMARKS BY MARTIN HAGERSTRAND

Mr. Hagerstrand: Calvin, I want to express appreciation for your presentation--taking your time, and we're very grateful for it. I'm sure that Calvin will be available here after class for all of those specific questions that you are interested in that they relate to some specific point that you're interested in. Remember, next week we will go back to the theater on the third floor. The speaker will be Dr. Ross Underwood, a specialist in education. He wrote a doctorate in Cherokee education. And, he will discuss the educational system from the time of the mission schools back in the late 1700's right on up to statehood. Are there any questions to this point? Thank you very much. See you next week.
