(I was interviewing Webb Littlejim one of the present chiefs; concerning the history of his people, since I have been teaching a class in Shawnee Indian history through the Commonity Action Program Little Axe.Center, $-0 j$ )

We came from Ohio.' That's what Dad (Little Jim) always told me. DQ We have these divisions among all of the Shawnees. It's like the Demörrats and the Republicans. You could be born that way. We have this in our itribe today. I guess it depends on what you want to be. I belong to the picowitha myself. It's because my Dad was one, and I gùess my grandfather. The picowithe handles the tribal ceremonies. I'm not fainiliar with what the hathawikla does. The kishpogotha are supposed to be fighting men. But, they all fought, anyway. When they were in trouble they all fought.

The Shawnees in Texas were with the' Cherokees and Delawares. The whole bunch was in there, together. They was helping Sam Houston fight the Mexicans. That's how they' got the treaty. That treaty might have been good if they hadn't pulled out. There were several trips made to Austin here in'recent years to the State Capitol to find out about the Treaty. Several people from here went in recent times, but they can't find any record of that treaty thiey say. i read one'letter that had belonged to my grandfather; Big Jim. Big Jim hired gote attornays to find out about that treaty but they aid they couldn't find anything. $\sigma$ DQ Maybe' he wanted to move back to Texas but I don't know. The \% attormey wat frothers. The letter was dated before 1900s. It would have to be, because Big Jin died then. He died id Old Mexico. Bo was: hunting a place then to move thils band of Shances-after he'd come from across the №rth Cenadian. Be wanted to get land from 01d Maxico--just for his band, not for the White Turkeys. -
