

What?

(What was the school like in those early when you went there?)

Well, it was pretty nice. Pretty nice boarding school, of course.

(Yeah. Had Indians from all around, I guess.)

Oh yeah. Most out of Oklahoma though. Hardly any of 'em out of state.

I think they was all--lot of Creeks. Lot of--

Third male voice: He used to go up Chilocco Indian--static.

I went there in 1916-17.

(Chilocco.)

My brother now they started in '17. Some of 'em went till '25 or '26

I guess. One of 'em went on to Haskell. Finished up there.

DELAWARE ARE SCATTERED NOW

(Are the Delawares getting pretty well scattered now, Fred?)

Well, fairly well. You'll find 'em just about everywhere.

(Course you still have a whole lot in--up in here, I imagine, in Nowata county there's lots of them.)

Washington county. 'Bout, well there's a few over around Nowata.

(Yeah.)

Nowata county in there. Several of 'em in Tulsa. See, lot of 'em work down there that--different places.

(Course at one time they were pretty well contained and pretty well together.)

Yeah, they were. Right around in here now there used to be all in here. Just Delawares everydirection.

(What was the main thing that caused 'em to start moving out and going to other places?)

Well, lot of 'em--work.

(For work)
