

They get them a little pot...put it in there and boil it. It get like tea.

They strain it and I take it. Take it while its warm.

(What does it do?)

It sweat you all out. It sweats out...gets all that sickness out.

(Do the Apache use the peyote for a lot of medicine?)

Hmmm.((yes))

(What other kind of doctoring do they do with it?)

I don't know about that. Freddy knows ((her husband)) more about peyote.

(What kind of store did your family go to when you were little?)

We go to Indian store they call Bokes.

(Where was that?)

Right across the school....way up on a hill there.

(What town was that near?)

Ain't no town. It's just a country store.

(What kind of things did they sell?)

Blankets. Oh, a lot of the Indians used jewelry....and ah..material, blankets, shawls.

(How much did shawls cost back then?)

$25.00. This time you pay $40 some odd dollars for shawl.

(Who was the man who owned the store?)

Boke...that man's name Boke, but Fremar (?) was the one take care of the store.

(What kind of man was he?)

He's about as big as Doc ((referring to Doctor Bittle)) in there.

(Was he a nice man?)

Hmmm.((yes))

(There's something that I just thought of that I wanted to ask about. Do you know any stories about the waterbird?)

No.
