

born eleven children. Seven of these children died at an early age. Only four have survived to this day. Mrs. Helen Curly, of Lawton, Oklahoma, who is a nurse at the Memorial Hospital. Mrs. Nema Martin of Lawton, who operates a beauty shop. Allen Scott Quoetone, Bureau of Indian Affairs, Superintendent of Horton, Kansas Agency. Charles Mitchell Quoetone, missionary, Ponca Methodist Mission. Mrs. Nettie Quoetone passed away May 7, 1935.

Your second marriage was also a woman from a prominent family, who was the daughter of Tsentonke, Hunting Horse, the same Indian Army Scout who has been given veteran's status and lies buried in Fort Sill. Nellie's mother was Pitmah, also from a prominent Kiowa family.

Your spiritual life. Guy, you came up in the early Christian missionary leader among our people. Your family were one of the first Christian families to enjoy the translation of what we call "The Kiowa Aid Worship to Christian World Life." Your father, Guitine, became a Christian convert. He dedicated his life and family to a Christian way of life. You, because of this Christian environment, it helped you to extend the early Christian work in the Methodist Church. You were responsible and have always been credited for your achievement, that you have got conversions of many of the Kiowa people to Christianity.

Your ministerial career. We heard many times that you have testified or witnessed of the Methodist ministry that you have felt called to God. And eventually this became your life profession. You needed experience in this ministry and prepared to be (unintelligible word) for a successful ministry among the Kiowa people. Through this experience you have become a Christian and events (?) have been worth while.

Your clerical work. You entered the work of the church first as a layman, interpreter, involved in the Sunday Schools, and later
