

don't have love. But love is the only thing that is going to make, make you be loved. Because God is love. Now there are people that are beginning to say that there is no God but some day they're going to find out. And then like I said then there's many Indian that I've talked to people that long time ago when the Indians lived they had wagons and buggies and walked, horseback riding. That was their transportation and all that. Lot of Indians had oil wells and plenty of money coming in what did they do with it. You can see some today that were like that, are down in the gutter. It's pitiful and it's a shame to have do that way. But in anyway I can be helpful to somebody. I'm always trying to do something for them. Nobody does anything for me. But I think what I've been doing interviewing people and just little thing what I'm doing. I have really enjoyed. That's what I'm trying to express myself. I enjoy telling people I work for the Indian education. American Indian Institute. Because I try to tell the Indians, that, of course I don't have the authority and I don't belong in that ring. I try to encourage them that they can try to help the younger generation that's coming upon to be around each other so they won't have to go off and work and be scattered everywhere. They could be together. Just like in our churches. We have our hundred members at West Eufaula Indian Baptist Church but they all have gone away somewhere to make a living. That's why we just have handful of members coming into the church. But if there were jobs around here available to them we would have lot of members within there, coming so they can be part. But some of them when they go off like that they don't go to church. They wait till they come back. And go to Indian church. We worship in our own language. We have English preaching and Creek both. But the Indians that have been brought up in the Indian language church that's where they like to go. But there are some that likes to go to these white man's way. It's alright as long as they worship God instead of acting like they're
