

Its run right up down this way up. The reason I saw that you see we got trees now.

(Yeah.)

And this old hotel its still there. My dad run a store there. He run a store down here in the early days too.

(And in the background what would that be?)

(Continue discussion of photographs)

Here's the depot.

(That's the depot. Well, that's most interesting. About when would this have been, Mrs. Egnor? About what year?)

I don't know. I'd have to look it up. I think I've got it.

(Did it look like it might be before statehood.)

Yes, it was before statehood.

(From the dress of the people there.)

It was before statehood. You see, now I had a lot of this written down and I loaned it to Richard. I was going to give it to you.

(Yeah.)

And he bring to me when you're coming back.

(All right.)

Mr. Kennedy:

(Well.)

And I've got the dates though on White Oak.

(Well, that's most interesting.)

I guess its--

(You're one of the few people I bet that's got a picture like that.)

Well, everytime I go somewhere got an old picture I take it to town have me one made off of it. I've got a picture of White Oak's first barber shop.
