

Long time--see this here?

(That's about as big a persimmon as I've seen anywhere. That's pretty white wood, isn't it?)

Yeah.

(It sure gets hard too.)

Yeah. (not clear) wood is good.

(Yeah.)

(Tape not clear)

(Yeah, they'd be good for wood, all right.)

This old lady was around here, I guess.

(Yeah, she was right here. She died long time ago 1904. Now was that your wife's grandmother or your wife's mother?)

Yeah, grandmother from her, I think it was her dad's mother, I think, or something like that.

(Her dad's mother?)

Her grandmother.

(Yeah.)

She married a fellow named Cloud afterwards, you know, this Rowe.

(Yeah, uh-huh. She was a Rowe, was she?)

No, I guess, she married Rowe, I guess before she married Cloud. I don't know what her maiden name was. I never found out. It's too far back and no one knew any relation.

(Oh, yeah, that's a long time ago.)

The old people, you know, they all died out.

(Yes, they sure have.)

Yeah, she always fixed something like that on the back porch. See that screen there?
