

(Yeah)

There's more. I went in there last year and there was some there then.

(Yeah)

I went to cut 'em down. The old lady makes possum grape juice to drink, you know.

(Yeah, that's good.)

She don't make jelly out of it. She just makes something to drink.

When she does she sweetens it.

(Yeah)

I don't know how she fixes it. She puts it in flour. Make a little thicker and then you drop in some biscuits, hot bread or something.

Boy, that's really good.

(Oh-yeah!)

Spoon it in.

(Kinda like possum grape dumplings.)

Uh-huh, yeah.

(Was there any paw-paws this year?)

Huh?

(Any paw-paws this year?)

I don't know I never have seen any.

BUCKEYE USED TO HELP GET FISH FOR FISHFRIES

(I didn't see any this year. And the buckeye? Have you got any buckeye up this way?)

Not now. There's some way down lower where sun gets in. There's some there.

(Yeah. Do you know over there where Stopp Cemetery is? Way over on Spring Creek is?)
