

(Yes, ma'am.)

And that's where the store is now.

(I've heard of the Monday family. They musta been quite prominent.)

Oh, they were. There's a few of them around here yet.

(Mmmm-hmmm.)

(static)---Ballard. I can't tell you what the other one is. It's a beautiful location upon top of a hill, and I don't think they're buried there any more.

(Oh, (names not clear))

No, I don't think--no, I don't know. I just couldn't tell you the name of it. Then, over on Monday Island, there's a cemetery over there. Now, that was--oh, what did they call that?

(Ralston.)

No, that isn't the one I'm thinking about. There's another one.

NEED MORE - AN OLD SETTLEMENT - CEMETERIES

(Was there--was there one called Needmore?)

Yes, that's what I mean.

(Needmore.)

Well, no, Needmore, now, is up a little further out, I believe. Needmore is upon that road to Grove. That's the road (not clear), and--but the one that's over there, I don't know what it is, but it's still there on top of the Island. (I want to go to that part of the country sometime and visit around. There's a Everett Reed that lives over there that I want to hunt up if I can find him. That's an old timer there.)

Oh, I know where there's a little cemetery out here north of town. I usually know what is is. You may have it already. And I have so many people that--I've never got out of my car to go and examine; but it's just a little bitty squared off place, and it's not near as big as half of this room. And it's got a
