50 yards. About as far as that school house over there. Little house sitting there and she said, here's where I get off. So. they stopped and she got off. She was going through the gate. They drove on. When they got to the house why, that boy thought about his coat. Well, that girl got off with my coat. The other one said, well, if we go there now she'll probably be in bed. We're going to go town in the morning any way. We'll pass that. We'll go right by that house. Then you can get your coat then. So, they went on to bed. Next morning, went to town. \They had to go right by that house. So, on their way to town, one of 'em got out and open the gate and they just drove on in there. Drove up to the house, right in front of the house. Just about far as that school house over there. They drove up there and honked. Old lady opened the door, well, just about half way open and stood on the door. They said we want to see Mary or Purple, whatever--just whatever name they use. Why she's been dead, -- she's been dead 12 years. She isn't around here anymore. Why she was with us last night. She got off with my coat and I want my coat. No. She don't live here. She's laying up there in that cemetery. She's got a purple tombstone. If you all don't believe me, you all can just go up there and see her tombstone. She's been dead 12 years. And your coat is not here either. So, they couldn't do nothing else. So, they just went on to town. When they got through at town. Come back. They told their mother about Told their mother about what happened last night and they it. come to that house and an old lady said, why, Purple's been dead 12 years. She's not here anymore. I loaned her my coat last night. She said your coat's not here either. The mother got kinda interested. She said, why that old house's been empty ever since we been here. We been here three years. We moved here three years ago. We moved a year after you all left. You all been gone four years. That old house has been empty all that time. Somebody must have just moved in there recently. Their mother got interested. Said, let's go over there and see. So, they got in the car. The mother came with 'em. They come to that house--old house. There wasn't no one there. Sure
