

His work and the Bible and so on. There's so much to be said concerning Christianity and I do not know as much as I'd like to know about it, but I study God's word, almost all the time when I am on the road to and from work. I sing, I pray for those who are without Christ because I believe it is my duty even though if I can't influence anybody by talking to him orally, but I believe that I can do good by praying for them. I pray for just anybody and everyone including my enemies. I pray that they see good in themselves that they would--that they would live as God would like for them to live a life as I am trying myself. Trying to fulfill God's desire in my personal being. So, I would like for everyone else to do the same in that way we would learn whole lot to get along, to appreciate one another, to enjoy a social life whether at home, church or getting together anywhere on the job, just to get along and be thankful that we have people to be with us and to be with the people ourselves. Person needs someone else that is the way it is.

INDIAN STICKBALL GAME

We all need each other. I couldn't think of anything else to say, so you ask me some questions, some points or something.

(Well I was going to ask you about that time--oh you used to tell about playing Indian stickball game or something like that.)

Yeah. That was my favorite sport, too. This sport is a little rough because its a match between men folks not just playing fun with women, but this is all men. Something like goals are set up like a football game and just about as far apart as they are in the goals of a football game too, but narrower goal posts and crossbar. And so I played in any position there, but the most place I enjoyed was to return the ball from the other post which is on the opposite, opposing goal. When you are placed there you got to catch
