

dead back in wagon days anyway.

(Well that would have been quite a ways.)

See this old monument here at Baptist. Looking back. That's the old Rev. Jesse Bushyhead, I believe, or his wife one.

(Well.)

And the son-in-law then is buried on top of that mound.

(Yeah.)

OLD BAPTIST MISSION

He was, Jesse Bushyhead was the one that moved the mission over here.

(Oh, he was. Well, that's an historic place that Baptist Mission building. Well, now is the the original building?)

They say that it is. Yeah. Mostly the original building. They hauled timbers and everything over here from Tennessee. There was one kind of newspaper published there. Several different things. Rather controversaal I gather from my understanding for this part of the country. That's the reason I say it was (Interruption)

(Old Bushyhead.)

Pattersons lived here then, but for a long time--(remained not clear)

(Yeah. Well, the chances are then this is where the original Bushyhead family originated.)

I believe it was.

(They settled here.)

I never did hear just how many children that the old man Bushy had. But it seems like there was two Dennis Bushyhead.

(Well.)

Now this younger one and his wife, Ellen, live there in Watts since I can remember.

(Yeah.)
