So that's just the way peoples do a long time way back. They make a vow to something you know. When your prayer come true, by your vow, then you do it. Just like, like she done (pointing to his wife Anni Somti Bigman). World War, Second World War. See my nephew's over there, Marivn.' He over there in bad place, where they fighting. I don't know what she thought about and she made a vow, she didn't tell me. Alright, one time she say, alright if you wanta see your nephew, you better stop what you're doing. Maybe you want to keep that what you doing, or see your nephew. Just whatever you want to do and when he comes back I'm gonna go ahead and put up this Indian church, this Native American Church. I want to get you to conduct that meeting and I want to get your nephew to help you. He's going to take care of the drum. Then on the other hand, gonna get Tom Bitsiddy to go ahead and tend to that fire. That's the vow she made. And when it happened sure enough when he came back she had that Indian church, Native American Church. Well we worked it out like she wanted it. And it happened to our oldest grand daughters birthday. lWe just put them all together..Mary Ruth. So today she's got three kids,...Junior, LuAnn and Thelma. That's just the way she made a vow made a prayer. And see her prayer get answered.
