

I don't know what kind of rules yours had got.

Annie Bigman: We got that rule. You can't take a butcher knife, stir your food with a butcher knife. I started one time, Old Lady took the knife away from me. Don't use that knife, no good. You can get sore throat, and that's what I get. Read bad. Use a spoon. This medicine got something to do with balls, you can't use a ball in the house I notice my boy started to play marbles in the tent. Old Lady said, get up get outside. She got up and scraped the ground and marked their tracks.

Fred Bigman: You not supposed to have a ball in the house, play with a ball. Like Kenneth, you know. First thing he have a soft ball or a base ball, or a basketball. You not supposed to play with it outside, but not in the house. That's the kind of rule this medicine I got.

(Several minutes of irrelevant conversation.)

You're not allowed to be plundering in there, except her. She got a right. Searching for things.

(You can take somebody in to see it can't you?)

Yea, Annie took that student in there didn't it.
