

MORE ABOUT LOCAL SCHOOL BUILDINGS

(Well, that old school building is gone now, I guess.)

Yes. It was a one room school.

(Well. What did it look like? Which way did it face?)

I don't remember. I probably know.

Third voice: --what is left of it is faced north. If you want to drive, I could follow you down there and she could show you where that phone is down at the store.

(Yeah. And it was just a one room frame building, was it?)

Yes, it was. I went to it. He never did see the school house. He was gone.

Third voice: You know, there's always little things left that you remember.

(Oh yes.)

And we had a cellar-- (static).

(Yeah.)

(Words not clear) brought it back. That was Hillsdale school.

(Hillsdale. Well. I've never heard of that one.)

And it's not there no more. The year I went there, Golda Bourlier taught.

Third voice: That was a good school. About three miles north of there.

NOT MUCH FARMING NOW - JUST RANCHING

(Well, has this always been a farming and ranching country through here?

Or is it mostly ranching?)

Some ranching, but there's not much farming anymore.

(Well, was there any oil discovered in this area here too?)

No, not to speak of. Not in this area. Now, I know, you know on back up there --

(Yes ma'm.)

Third voice: There are some wells back over in there.

(Well, was Glenoak a little country store and town?)
