

(Yeah)

It had a little, old small porch out on the front of it. Some wench took a big, sharp knife and took after him and jumped right off that top porch. He just side stepped and that fella kept going over.

(Wonder it hadn't killed him.)

He didn't want to shoot her or nothing.

(Yeah.)

He's active as a cat.

(He's a big fella too.)

He's one of these kinda guys that took care of himself from the word go until everything. He was sure much of a man.

(Well, actually Dewey must have been a rough place at one time.)

Down there at the museum. They got a little Tom Mix Museum there. Got all of things there.

(I want to go see that sometime too.)

They got a big aluminum deal there. He has a suitcase with a aluminum--It was kind of an aluminum suitcase. That's what killed him. That was behind him.

(Well)

He got on there. Going out to someplace out in Arizona. Going through a detour too fast and that dadgum thing come and hit him right in the back too. Of course, Tom was getting old and he had went to drinking.

(Well.)

MUCH MORE ABOUT TOM MIX - INCIDENTS

He never would drink here when he was living to himself.

(Yeah.)

Made $20,000 a week when he built Mixville.
