

They call themselves "Lenape." Means "Men of our Nation".

(Next sentence not clear).

MORE ABOUT PROBLEMS CONCERNING DELAWARES

Well, I know, but this here -- In a few towns its the same way. See Delaware and --

(Yeah, the same way. One in English and one in Delaware.)

Somebody told me long years ago there used to be a lot of Delaware women that wore moccasins. Real pretty. Leggings, I mean. I couldn't describe just how they was. Maybe had 'em rigged up someway. Some of the leggings them women wore. Used to be a lot of 'em in there east of Dewey and right on clear on out to Delaware. Lenapah. I guess there's lot of places. You know, the first think that helps this tribe out. (Words not clear) was living back there somewhere. And the next day they took off and went up to Minnesota.

(Yeah.)

And then finally kept them out of there.

(But there's none of them left though. None of 'em stayed with the Delawares did they?)

Well, not anybody to live,-- probably intermarried.

(Yeah.)

But you see-- they was-- After we went up there they sent 'em out and that reduced us down to the Delawares. And called us Cherokee-Delawares.

(Yeah.)

Us poor old Delawares. Cherokee Delawares -- We got a Delaware that didn't go away. That's why they're selling out now.

(Yeah. Well, this payment now is-- I don't know why the tribe should have to pay their legal fees when the government is the one that brought it all on anyway.)
