

They talk this over. Then if they agree to it, they tell 'em. They tell when to come, when to come again. So, they go back and tell 'em. During that time, they get ready. One time, at that time they come. Take the camp over here back Abe Back's. There was crossing there. Good water then. They camp there. And from then on, when they camp there, they get them same boys. They sent 'em over to Hominy. At Hominy the same committee get together. They tell 'em where they at. They go where they at. When they do that, then they come back if they were coming. All right to tell 'em to come on. /Words not clear/ boys away. /Words not clear/ to come see about 'em. When they do come and see about 'em, you don't come for nothing. You got to give a horse away. You better have an extra horse. When they do come, they collect. The head drummer get that. Each one gets a horse a piece. They take 'em home. Go on. When they get that, the man is the best man. They show 'em where to camp. They camp there. Then everybody have to start cooking. Wife start cooking. They don't have to cook 'cause they feed each other. Maybe the men that hollers like Jim Waters and that Omaha boy.

(Raymond ?)

Yeah. They tell 'em stand out there. But they don't have to holler. They just go tell who they are. And they tell 'em they want you. Need you over here. They go on tell 'em go over there. They be eating. Lot of times you have to--somebody else come again. Certain ones they want you over here. Maybe you're not through, but you go over there. Keep on all day. Not all day, but along about this time. Before about two o'clock they dance. Dance afternoon, then dance nighttime. They didn't have no--what do you call it--bright lights and electricity. We burn our lanterns. And when they get through--when they get through dancing, the man that run the--brought that drum over here while they're dancing, they're cooking over here. Cooking nighttime. They cook
