

that old barber shop picture, didn't I?

(Yes. You showed me that. I remember that one.)

I don't know. It's in here somewhere.

(Your dad, he wore a six-shooter all the time.)

And slept with it under his pillow. I can remember that 'cause us kids-- taught we was to never touch that. And we didn't either.

(Well.)

Yes, every morning-- Now here's an old time picture 'course this is Myrt's
This is Mrs. Kennedy's graduating class. This is her. I had me one made 'cause its real old.

(Well. Those things are most interesting.)

TIMES WERE HARD IN EARLY DAYS IN CERTAIN TIMES OF YEAR

This old building here (word not clear) 'course that's in Arkansas.

(The place I went to there. I think it was Grove.)

(Sentence not clear.) --now like out there they had them hay fields. They got good pay in the summer and make money. He said, I'll tell you during the winter time lot of times they had to eat crawdads.

(Well.)

Said that's all they could get.

(I guess times have been hard in this country.)

Well see down in there what they raise during the summer, they couldn't--wasn't anything to make any money on.

(Yeah.)

Just had an old cow or calf to sell. (Words not clear.)

(Oh, I can see where it--say in a bad farming year they wouldn't get to put up much. And then it would be a bad winter for some of 'em.)

And he said some of 'em went to making whiskey. He said some of my kinfolks
