

and they fill up. On that side till they all fill up. And this.....from him, on the right side, that's what we call his drummer. He drums from him for start of meeting. They got a starting, you know when they start having this meeting. Church Service....they would sing these four songs. That's their even(?) songs, their starting group of songs. Then everybody would take turns singing. He sing four songs this one and this one man would set by him and he has gourd, and he had feathers, just like this mens that those that gourds you know, and they have a staff about so long you know ((three inches)) And they hold it like this ((upright)) and everybody be sit on the ground you know, with something to sit on like quilts or blankets, anything like that. Everybody like that that's in the tipi. When this chief sings he pass it over to the second one and the second one like that till it comes back to him again. And then he would stop a while and he would talk. He preaches...talk, and talk, and talk. And finally he gets through, he smokes. At the start of the meeting, everybody smokes, they pass this corn shucks, they have them cut like cigarettes in bundles, and they pass that and that bull durham and it comes this way. Everybody got to roll their own cigarettes and they smoke it and it goes across the door like this and then all around on both side they start smoke till it comes back to the chief. And when it comes back to the chief that's when they start to sing. And when he gets through with those four songs, he pass it this way and this way.(?) Till they all comes back to him again. That's how it starts. And then this peyote, it either comes in powder, you know, it's ground real fine. They get that and they pass it around or either in green herbs, they have it in a sack and they pass it. If you want to eat two or three or four, something like that, you eat those. All those green ones, they eat it or those powder ones or the tea. They drink it. And then they keep passing that around and then they start singing. Whoever wants to get somemore, they call for them and they pass it on to him. The ones that call for it. And way in the midnight, the ones that thirsty...well it goes that way, any way. They bring that water in. They call midnight water...just like people have
