

Yeah. Yeah. Right!

(Like I say, we don't have no use for that now.)

INDIAN BELIEFS IDENTICAL TO BIBLE

No. Right. But then it's a good meaning with it. You know these things are in thoughts. Also these things are all good--for the good. It's not anything bad. There's nothing bad within it. But then we--we people think of the bad side of it or the unbelief side of it, then the means of getting hurt by it or something like that. Well, you can, you know get hurt in many ways today without doing something like that. Something that's misusing or something like that. But if we follow the laws--laws within it; just like I said, the Indian ways are identical to the Bible. Bible is all the laws within it anyway for the existence of mankind. And anything that you want to know within our modern times is spoken about in the Bible. And then the laws is set up against it you know--you can't do this, you can't do that you know. So, Indian had the same identical things with these what they call taboos you know which they weren't you know. These were things that as you spoke that a person had the means of doing something you know, well, there's one that didn't possess it. Well, a person could possess it if he believes in it. He can possess the same thing, provided that he gets it in the same way this person gets it you know. So, there's no difference in them things. It's wonderful to think of those things you know. That--I've always been told you know that everything's possible that I didn't believe you know. There's a lot of things I can't believe you know but now that I'm seeing all of the things that we thought was impossible it's happening you know. And then I always believe that within the ones means of power, you know within yourself, that you got so much that you can do. You can't overdo it if you don't possess that you know. So I believe in that. (Like too, you know, like old people over in Europe. I've forgotten who that boy was over there that predicted all those things. We had them ourselves.)
